

~ NEW ~

ADVANCED INTERPROFESSIONAL SERVICE LEARNING OPPORTUNITY

Effective health promotion is needed for people living with intellectual and developmental disability (IDD)

Who: Students of all professions who completed IPE 502: Interprofessional Patient Centered Teams

What: 10-week advanced service learning opportunity. This will be a collaborative, interprofessional experience focused on adults with IDD.

Where:

- Didactic content on Canvas
- 3 online synchronous, collaborative telehealth sessions with people with IDD living in group homes and their support person at a local community-based agency to develop and self-advocate for a health promotion/wellness goal(s).

Photo: <https://www.adasmckinley.org>

When: Fall 2022

Why:

1. Improve your comfort, skills, and competencies to care for persons with IDD as part of a team.
 - According to a recent survey:
 - Only 40.7% of physicians were very confident about their ability to provide the same quality of care to patients with disability.
 - Only 56.5% strongly agreed that they welcomed patients with disability into their practices.And the survey did not ask about intellectual disability
2. Fulfill professional development hours
3. Develop a capstone or other project (optional)

Contact: To join the list for this course, fill out the following RedCap: <https://redcap.rush.edu/redcap/surveys/?s=TNLCF8NE7LKC4MWJ>

This course was developed with a grant from the Administration for Community Living. See path-pwidd.org for more information.