Rush’s annual Conflicts of Interest (COI) survey launches the week of July 11

Rush, including Rush University, is an institution of public trust. In recognition of that status, all Rush employees, faculty, staff and students are expected to conduct their affairs in ways that exemplify the Rush mission and ICARE values. Annual reporting of outside professional activities through the conflicts of interest (COI) survey process helps safeguard the work and reputations of Rush employees, faculty and staff and underscores excellence in what we do.

Rush’s COI policies are designed to ensure that individuals disclose these relationships, and that Rush appropriately manages or eliminates situations in which personal or familial interests might otherwise compromise or appear to compromise individuals’ objectivity as caregivers, teachers, researchers or administrators.

Based on your role at Rush, you may receive an email with survey instructions the week of July 11*. The completion deadline is July 29. If you do not receive the survey, you are still required to report any relationships or activities described in the conflicts of interest policy and/or vendor guidelines to your supervisor and the COI Office. To read the full policy, visit the policies and procedures page on Inside Rush and search for Policies OP-0359 and CC-RC-0008 (research). COI guidelines for working with vendors are available here.

*Residents receive their COI survey the first week of August.
