

National Student Loan Data System

The National Student Loan Data System (NSLDS) is a US Department of Education database for federal student aid. On NSLDS, aid recipients can find a summary of their federal student loans and grants received over the course of their education.

To access NSLDS, please visit www.nslds.ed.gov. You can access your summary by selecting "Financial Aid Review". Please note that you will need to login using:

- your social security number
- the first two letters of your last name
- your date of birth and
- your Federal Student Aid PIN

If you have forgotten or disabled your PIN, you can either retrieve or enable your PIN through www.pin.ed.gov. To retrieve your PIN, please select "Request a Duplicate PIN". To enable your PIN once again, please select "Reestablish My PIN". For each option, you will need to enter:

- your social security number
- the first two letters of your last name and
- your date of birth

Once you have logged on, please review the information on your summary page to ensure that the data is correct. If you feel there is an error, you will need to contact the education institution where you originally borrowed and/or the agency that is servicing and collecting on the loan.

You can access the specific details of each aid award by selecting the blue number in the far left hand column. For loans, you will find loan dates/periods, disbursement information, current balances, loan statuses, and interest rate type (fixed or variable). The loan details will also include contact information for the current servicer, lender, and/or guarantor.

Please note, NSLDS is updated approximately every 30 days. The information on the summary page may not reflect the most recent adjustments or payments. To access the most updated loan information, please contact your servicer or set up an online account on your servicer's website.
